Your Coverage on “Sicko”

One of the foremost pharmaceutical and medical device litigation attorneys in the U.S,

Los Angeles attorney Shawn Khorrami knows the inside story on pharmaceutical companies stranglehold on American medicine.

Khorrami carries one of the largest and most high profile caseloads in the country against pharmaceutical giants such as Glaxo SmithKline, Merck and Co., Wyeth Pharmaceuticals, Eli Lilly and Co., Pfizer, Johnson and Johnson and Ortho McNeil Pharmaceuticals. He has represented thousands of individuals across the country who have suffered injuries from pharmaceutical drugs among them Vioxx, Celebrex, Bextra, Ortho Evra, Prempro, Paxil, Zyprexa, and ReNu.

Khorrami’s law firm – Khorrami, Pollard and Abir – has scoured thousands of documents, emails, sales call notes and other propriety pharmaceutical documents that are usually unavailable to politicians, government officials, and even the courts. Through his practice, he has obtained inside information on the inner workings and questionable practices of pharmaceutical companies and offers a unique perspective on how they put profits ahead of patient care time and again.

Informed, charismatic and highly articulate, Khorrami is willing to speak to:

- The tactics pharmaceutical drug companies use to disseminate biased and sometimes unsubstantiated information to physicians, resulting in injured patients or even death
- How drugs get used “off-label,” that is, for purposes not approved by the FDA
- How bad drugs get on the market
- The subtle techniques pharmaceutical companies use to market off label drugs, even though the off label marketing of drugs is illegal
- Pervasive financial incentives pharmaceutical companies offer to doctors – such as rebates – that encourage doctors to over prescribe their drugs
- The too cozy relationship between pharmaceutical companies and the FDA
- FDA’s hugely inadequate resources for on-going monitoring of drugs after they are approved.

A frequent lecturer on toxic injury from products and an invited expert before the House of Representatives, Khorrami and his cases has been featured by the Associated Press, the Washington Post, Newsday, major daily newspapers around the country, on the “Today” show, and network television affiliates around the country.

He provides intelligent and controversial discussion this pressing topic important to your viewers that “Sicko” and the presidential elections are bringing to the fore.
